USING THE BOOKS:

Little Word Family Books are a fun way to get your students practicing reading word family words. They can be used in literacy centers, morning work, or even sent home as extra reading practice!

To make the books, fold the paper in half horizontally and then in half again vertically.

Please note! Only long a words are currently included, the rest of the long vowels will be added soon!

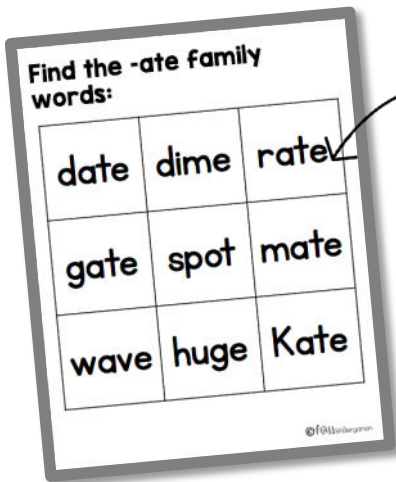

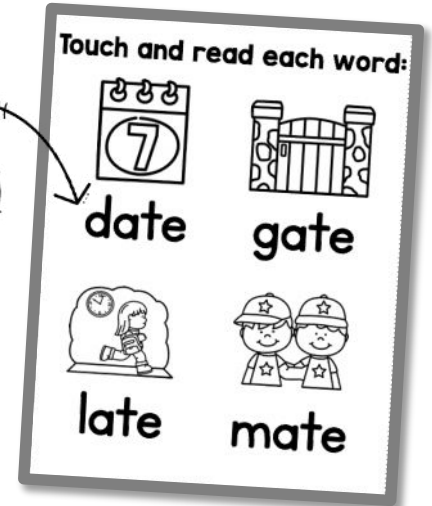

The front cover showcases the word family your students will practice. You can have them decorate the word family in various ways. Here are some fun ideas!

- *Color the letters with crayons, markers or colored pencil
- *Cover the letters with white glue and add glitter or colored sand
- *Decorate the letters with small stickers or a bingo dauber

{If you have your students decorate the letters with something that leaves a texture, I suggest folding the page into a book after they fill out each page}

USING THE BOOKS:

On this page, your students will have the opportunity to practice reading the word family words with picture guidance.

Your students will search for the words in the word family. They can color, highlight or use a bingo dauber to mark the words.

On the last page, the students will practice reading the words fluently in the sentences. First, they will search for the word family words in each sentence and circle it. They will read the sentences three times each and color a star each time they read. Sometimes, I have them switch it up and read top to bottom, then bottom to top. This helps to make sure they are reading the sentences accurately, rather than memorizing them.
